

M'ADOO PLEDGES AID TO J. W. DAVIS

WILL GIVE HIS WHOLE SUPPORT TO W. VIRGINIAN

Defeated Candidate For Nomination, Who Fought

vention in Full Accord
With His Views Now and Will Be Active in His Campaign—Issues Statement Before Sailing for Abroad.

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, July 12.—W. G. McAdoo, in a statement issued today, said he would give John W. Davis his cordial support and take part in the campaign. "I am satisfied that Mr. Davis is in full accord with the progressive program outlined in the Democratic platform," said Mr. McAdoo. "I am confident that Mr. Davis will execute the party's mandate."

Referring to criticism from some quarters against Mr. Davis because of his connection with the House of Representatives, Mr. McAdoo said: "Mr. Davis' high character, integrity and services should satisfy every apprehension of this sort."

"I did not believe this," continued Mr. McAdoo, "I could not render aid because I have always believed that the interests of the people should never be subordinated to a merely selfish party. The influence and power of these progressive forces must not be dissipated by division between various political movements; they must rather be consolidated and used like an irresistible battering ram of that party which offers the best instrumentality for service to the people."

Mr. McAdoo's statement, in full was as follows:

"Mr. Davis and I have been friends for the past twelve years and I had the pleasure of discussing the political situation with him yesterday. The great body of progressive Democrats who supported me strongly in the convention have been anxious to know my attitude towards Mr. Davis as a candidate. My visit was for the purpose of learning from Mr. Davis his views on the important issues before the country. I am satisfied that he is in full accord with the progressive program outlined in the Democratic platform."

"Mr. Davis' professional connections and his associations with great banking houses and co-operative interests are very thoroughly considered in every thoughtful mind. I have no doubt in my mind as to his complete sympathy with the great reforms the Democratic party must execute if it is to serve the genuine interests of the people. The doubts are not justified because a lawyer's views on economic, political and social questions are no more to be judged by his professional associations than the character of his patients. Mr. Davis should be judged by his opinions, not those of his clients and by the impression of sincerity and ability he creates in the public discussions of the issues before the country."

"Mr. Davis' high character, integrity and service should satisfy any apprehension of this sort. I am confident that, as president, he would faithfully execute the mandate of that party which I did not believe this, I could not render aid, because I have always believed that the interests of the people should not be subordinated to a merely selfish party."

"Clearly there is no promise in the Republican party. Clearly there is no promise in the Democratic party. If this progressive influence is wisely and vigorously used within that political organization, the hope of genuine reforms and progress is more likely to be realized at this time than through the efforts of its opponents."

"I shall therefore give the Davis-Bryan ticket my cordial support and shall take part in the campaign on my return in September."

Mr. McAdoo gave out the statement as he sailed on the Homeric with his wife and two daughters for a six weeks visit to France, Spain and Portugal.

Among those who had him farewell were David Lloyd Rockwell, who managed his national campaign. When recognized by persons on the pier and aboard the liner, Mr. McAdoo smiled and doffed his hat.

NEW ENDURANCE RECORD IS SET BY ARMY FLIERS

Lieutenants McDonald and Smith Stay in Air Over Fourteen Hours.

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, July 12.—The record for remaining aloft in a seaplane was broken here today by Lieutenants F. W. Weed and John D. Price, who landed after 14 hours and 16 minutes. They took to the air late yesterday. The former record, made by them was 13 hours and 20 minutes.

(By The Associated Press.)
NEWPORT NEWS, Va., July 12.—A new seaplane endurance record for continuous flight without refueling was established at Langley Field this morning by Lieutenants George McDonald and H. D. Smith, army air service, when they landed at 4:13 a. m. after having been aloft for the time of 14 hours, 46 minutes and 15 seconds. The seaplane, established at the Hampton Roads naval air station on June 22 and 23, this year by Lieutenants F. W. Weed and J. G. Price, was 13 hours and 20 minutes.

The flight of Lieutenants McDonald and Smith was observed by A. S. Schorrey, representing the National Aeronautical Association making the record official. It also will be reported to the international Aeronautical Association for recognition as a new world's record.

Major Frederick L. Martin's world flight Douglas cruiser, mounted with pontoons, was used in the flight and when the plane landed, it was found that enough gasoline remained in the tank for several hours more of flying. The distance has not yet been accurately checked, owing to the fact that once just before landing the fliers strayed from their planned triangular course, which they had traversed 55 times, causing Major Westover, executive officer of the field to go up in his car to look for them. The record of Weed and Price was made with a Curtiss CS-1C navy type cruiser.

Primary object for the Langley Field endeavor, which represented the first time aviators of this post had been given an opportunity to try for a world's record, was to establish the feasibility of crossing the Atlantic without refueling. It is believed that last night's success has proven the Douglas cruiser capable of such a feat.

Perfect Plans For Entertainment of Coming Convention
At the meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, all other business matters were deferred to give priority to perfecting plans and arrangements for the entertainment of the American Legion convention which will be held here, August 25-27. (Gus) Booth, Waverly H. Cousins and G. O. Dodd were also invited to attend this meeting.

The canvas for funds with which to defray the expenses of the convention is expected to get under way Monday morning, and the chairman of all committees are expected to meet at 9:30 o'clock, in accordance with the plan of L. B. Conway, for preliminary instructions to the various committees. The committees will assemble in the lobby of the Chamber of Commerce for a short, sharp conference with the campaign captains.

Judging from the spirit already shown it is expected that it will be possible to raise the necessary funds in one day and a half. A large number of people did not wait for the committee to call on them, but have already made their subscriptions, and so far, no one has refused to contribute to the fund.

Another phase of the meeting was arranging plans for additional publicity, and a number of cards and folders submitted by G. O. Dodd and W. H. Cousins were approved and accepted and they will be printed early Monday morning.

Heads of County Schools of N. C. to Hold Meeting

(By The Associated Press.)
CHAPEL HILL, N. C., July 12.—A four-day conference of the county superintendents of schools will be held at the Peabody School of Education of the University of North Carolina during Tuesday, July 15th, through Friday, July 18th, according to a statement issued today by W. W. Walcott, acting director of the school.

The purpose of the meeting, the statement says, will be the discussion of the problems which now confront the schools as the outstanding financial needs. The statement names six subjects in this class. They are the planning of Centers, Transportation Buildings, High Schools, Financial and Educational Campaigns.

Dr. A. T. Allen will take a leading part in the discussions and has expressed the opinion that this will be one of the most important meetings that will be held in the history of this State. He urges that all superintendents and others interested in the development of the State's school system be present. He asserted that the meeting would not be completed without the presence of every superintendent in the State present.

Referring to problems to be discussed, Dean Walker said, "The School of Education believes the most important of these problems confronting the State at present are the involvement in the intelligent planning of the county school systems. This group of problems is so fundamental and far-reaching in its consequences that it is imperative that it be given the highest priority. It would be beneficial to hold a conference of county school superintendents to discuss its various phases. We are therefore asking every superintendent of a county school system to make every effort to attend this meeting."

Talking Honey

FIGURE NO. 1 IS LIFTING FIGURE NO. 2 OUT OF THE WATER. THE CROSSED POSITION OF NO. 1'S HANDS WILL BRING NO. 2 INTO A SITTING POSITION AS SHE COMES OUT OF THE WATER.

This is the fifth of a series of six articles on methods of life saving about the water. The last article will appear tomorrow.

By MARGARET PLUNKETT

In cases of rescue, there is a great risk of overturning the boat, when the rescuer does not understand the proper way to lift a body out of the water. Also, it is a common occurrence that swimmers who have brought drowning persons to a dock or a float are unable to lift the other readily out of the water.

Here are a few simple directions adaptable to such instances:

Place one of the rescued persons' hands on top of the other on the edge of the boat or float. In climbing out of the water, keep one of your hands on the two hands of the other person. Then face the person in the water, cross your own hands and take hold of the other's. Lift up and down until momentum is gained, and then lift the body above the water, uncrossing your hands as you do so. The movement will bring the person up with his back to you. In this way you will not have to lift him completely out of the water, but only high enough to sit down.

Nothing Simple In Fashions Is Seen These Days

By ALDEN LAMONT (Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)

NEW YORK, July 12.—Times have changed since the extemporaneous quackeries leaped against the mahogany and tortured the popular soul which began "Round her neck she wore a yellow ribbon." Nothing so simple as a yellow ribbon obtains in fashions in these days. Siberian and Russian fashions, and the depths of the sea now are ravaged for neck adornments.

The poor abused ostrich is furnishing the majority of the present day neck ornaments. The newest of these have been on the proportions of the Elizabethan ruff, which has been turned into a ruche fully six inches wide, of alternate rings of black and white ostrich plumes closely curled into rolls and fastened with a broad black ribbon. A corresponding but smaller ruche trim the small black panne hat, worth with this odd adornment.

A large cape line hat, designed for garden party wear, trimmed with a black and white bird, dictated the design of a black and white neck piece. The ostrich plume is worn in combination with a broad scarf of black satin ribbon pleated with insects of white satin where it passes around the neck and shoulders.

The influence of the hat again is seen in a model originated by one of the French "milliners" which starts with a large shape raffia hat, bordered and trimmed in tortoise shell velvet and ends with a wide voluminous scarf of mouseline de sole of the same tone which is laced across with velvet bands of a darker hue.

Ostrich boas are becoming popular, the feathers being loosely curled and dyed in shades ranging from a teal duck blue to the golden brown of the pheasant's plumage. In the fur for all of the fashion of the moment, and the scarfs of that fur are both large and heavy. Hair sea with a trimming of monkey fur also is being extensively used as a trimming, as well as for neck pieces, while white dyed center and ermine offer irresistible inducements to many women.

One or two bathing suits of ermine have made their appearance on the English beaches but because of their cost have been regarded in the light of advertisements for movie stars or of the appropriate habiliments of the "gold diggers" of the northern climes.

As to bathing suits, the French have some hard evidence for models likely to make their appearance—more than once—on American beaches. These are backless, the trunks being sustained in the rear by hands crossed supererogatorily over the shoulders. From the front, the effect is thoroughly modest and enveloping. But the back is a skin game. Wearing one adds authority to the old maxim "never run from a policeman."

LETTER FROM MRS. JOSEPH GRAVES HAMILTON TO LESLIE PRESCOTT

MY DEAR DAUGHTER:

I'm very much disappointed at not being able to be with you on your anniversary, but Leslie dear, I am very much worried over your father. He's not very well, and since he arrived home his business cares have been doubled and been most troublesome. He misses Mrs. Atherton very much. Of course the whole house is upset with preparations for Alice's wedding. I wonder if you remember that at the time of your marriage she said she was not going to have a big wedding—that she hated them. Now she seems to be obsessed with only one idea—that her wedding is to be much larger, much grander, and much more expensive society event than yours.

Leslie dear, I am very much concerned over Alice's marriage. She seems to be so different since she returned home. She is irritable and nagging, and she leads poor Karl such a life that your father said to me the other day that he wouldn't blame him if he broke the engagement.

Her latest notion is that she does not want to live in America after she is married. She particularly dislikes Pittsburgh, and you know how devoted Karl is to his old home. I don't think he was ever very happy in England. He just stayed over there because he had an idea that Alice needed him.

I suggested that Karl and she go to your anniversary party, and she was quite impatient at the suggestion. Said she didn't understand why she had to make her appearance at your party just because she happened to be your sister—said in a very nasty way that Karl could go if he wanted to.

Leslie, I think Alice is making a great mistake because not only your father and I, but nearly every one I meet here, where you girls grew up, knew that Karl was very much in love with you before your marriage. Now that he has transferred that affection she ought to be quite satisfied to let bygones be bygones. But she is always bringing it up and making Karl uncomfortable. If she doesn't look out she will succeed in turning his thoughts back to you—for Leslie darling you were very sweet and charming while we were in New York, and contrast to her irritability and selfishness.

Perhaps I oughtn't to say this to you, Leslie, about Alice. But I am so worried about this marriage that I had to talk to someone. I dare not speak of it to your father because he already has become so out of patience with Alice that I am sure he would be very stern with her. He has gotten to a point now where he treats his own daughter with the most commonest politeness and keeps out of her way as much as possible.

He speaks of you very often, my dear. You have always been such a good daughter to us and we are so glad that you are happy in your home.

The check in this letter is from your father as a little present to you on your anniversary. Do with it what you please. Do the thing that will give you the greatest pleasure. It is sent with all the love of

YOUR MOTHER AND FATHER.

P. S.—Your father asked me to write this letter for him as well as myself but I am sure he did not intend me to be so very confidential. (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

Woman Is Held For Killing Man at High Point

(By The Associated Press.)

HIGH POINT, N. C., July 12.—Minnie Bass, charged with the murder of Robert Parker, was ordered held for the Superior Court by Judge J. M. Hedgecock in police court here on the grounds of probable cause. She was released on bond of $1,000.

Minnie Bass was charged with the stabbing to death of Robert Parker on last Sunday. The chief witness was Russell Dunlap, who testified that he was on the porch of the house when Parker called the defendant who at first refused to answer but later did go into the room. He stated that after Parker had been stabbed, he heard noises in the room. He denied, however, that he had heard any quarrel between the stabbed man and the woman.

BOTH BUSINESS AND HOME WOMAN WILL LIKE THIS FROCK

When you come to the end of a perfect day are you all wilted and mussy-looking? That's the problem the business girl has to cope with during the summer months.

So style No. 2150 has been selected as the ideal summer business frock. It's simple—no fussing to look rumpled when home-going time arrives—in fact she who doesn't go home before an evening jaunt will look as fresh as ever—particularly if she has chosen a soft summer tub silk from which to fashion it. Tissue gingham, drop-stitch voile and soft flowered cottons are also suggested.

Of course, this doesn't mean the home woman may not wear this style—quite to the contrary—it is one she'll derive more satisfactory service from than any other in her wardrobe.

The really nice feature that both the business woman who has only evenings in which to sew and her married sister who amid her numerous household duties finds very little time to make her clothes—both designs can be made so easily and quickly.

The pattern for dress No. 2150 is cut in sizes 16, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 takes 3 1/2 yards 36-inch material with 1/4 yard 36-inch contrasting. Price 15c in stamps or coin (coin preferred).

INTENSE HEAT KEEPS ATTENDANCE DOWN AT OLYMPIC GAMES TODAY

(By The Associated Press.)
OLYMPIC STADIUM, COLOMBES, France, July 12.—It was extremely hot today and this kept down the Saturday attendance in the Olympic stadium, the Parisians apparently preferring the coolness of the shade to the sun in the hot sun of the city. This was a great disappointment to the French Olympic committee, which had expected it to be one of the big attendance days of the week.

Bruno, Sterling, Argentine track performer, sprang the first sensation of the day by breaking the Olympic record in the running, hop, step and jump with a mark of 15.42 metres, superseding the record of 14.92 metres made by T. Ahearne, of England in 1908.

Bryan Hines, Northwestern university, defeated Dillar, of Belgium, on points in the 135 pound class, bringing America's total of victories to five.

The British relay team broke the world's record in the 400-metre relay race with a mark of 42 seconds flat. The old world and Olympic record was 42.1 seconds.

Four hundred metre relay race, first heat, two nations qualify for semi-finals score: Great Britain first; Greece second. Time, 42 seconds. New Olympic and world record.

Finland won the 10,000 metre cross country event as a nation, with 11 points. The United States was second with 14 points, France third with 20 points. This result gave Finland 25 Olympic points and the United States 10 points.

The 400 metre relay, sixth heat: United States first, France second. Time 41.5 seconds (new world's record).

After the final of the 10,000 metre individual and team race events, the total of points for the two leaders was: United States 193½, Finland, 138.

Nurmi, the Finnish long distance star, won the 10,000-metre cross-country race.

Ritola of Finland finished second. 400-metre relay race, second heat: South Africa, first; Canada, second. Time, 42.4 seconds.

Third heat: Holland first; Hungary, second. Time 42 seconds, equalling new world's record.

The United States team broke the world's record in the 400-metre relay race, sixth trial heat, making the distance in 41.1 seconds, beating the new record of 42 seconds flat made in the afternoon by the British team.

400-metre relay: Fourth heat: Switzerland, first; Italy, second. Time 42.4 seconds.

The Argentine team finished third, failing to qualify.

Fifth heat: Sweden first; Denmark second. Time 43.4 seconds.

Arthur Studdenroth, of Philadelphia, and August Fager, of the Finnish-American A. C., New York, were the other Americans inside the first in this race, which saw many of the field finishing in a state of collapse after their ordeal under the blazing sun, while others staggered across the line, several of them shoeless and weary.

The effects of the long grind seemed to daze all but the leaders, the runners reeling about track as they entered the stadium portal and having to be guided in the direction of the finish.

The Americans raced like the wind to clip four-fifths of a second off the mark set by Great Britain in the first heat and equaled in the third heat by Holland. The United States team was composed of Frank Hussey, Stuyvesant of New York, the interscholastic sprint champion; Louis Clark, of Johns Hopkins; Loren Murphree, Newark A. C., and Alfred Lechney, Meadow Brook Club. They ran in the order named.

DIVORCE COURT FOR CHICAGO NEWSPAPER MAN

CHICAGO, July 12.—End of the romance of Carroll Shaffer, son of John C. Shaffer, millionaire grain elevator owner and publisher of a string of papers in Indiana, Chicago, Louisville and Denver, came when Mrs. Shaffer filed suit for divorce. Mrs. Shaffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick Bullard, of St. Louis. She is a prominent figure in Evanston society, active in Northern Indiana, where she lives with her four children in a magnificent Evanston home.

The suit makes a formal charge of desertion, but there are intimations that this does not tell all the story. Mrs. Shaffer, in her bill, declares she has been good, true and virtuous wife, but her husband disregarded his marital vows and deserted her and their children on May 20, 1922.

Mrs. Shaffer asks custody of their four children, Carolyn, 15; Barbara, 14; John C. 8, and Robert, 7. She declares her husband is very wealthy and able to care for her and their children and she asks suitable alimony.

A month ago burglars broke into Mrs. Shaffer's home and ransacked the upper floors, stealing jewelry valued at many thousands of dollars. Carroll Shaffer is interested with his father, aside from their big publication and other interests in Chicago.

The Chicago Evening Post, the Rocky Mountain News of Denver, the Indianapolis Star and various other Stars in Indiana and a paper in Louisville.

Williams Stansfield, colored, was fined $5 and costs on larceny charges. R. A. Walker drew $6 and costs for going to a local hotel and creating a disturbance.

A disturbance charge against Hence Kelly was dismissed.

PAPERS CHARGING SOLDIERS WITH INSUBORDINATION

(By The Associated Press.)
MANILA, July 11.—Complete papers in the cases of fifty-four of the 110 members of the 57th Infantry and twelfth regiment, Philippine scouts, who have been charged with insubordination because of formation of a secret body to seek pay increases and subsequent refusal of duty, have been received at the department headquarters here from Fort McKinley, the regiment's station. The papers are being examined by the legal and administrative branches of the department staff concerned in the summary dismissal of soldiers exhibiting undesirable traits.

FALK TAKES LEADERSHIP IN HITTING, JUMPS FROM FIFTH TO FIRST PLACE

(By The Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, July 12.—A sensational drive that produced fourteen hits in seven games rushed "Bib" Falk, Chicago White Sox outfielder, to the batting leadership of the American League, with an average of .372, according to averages of games through Wednesday released today.

Falk was fifth a week ago with .345. Although his hitting was confined to spaces within fences, five blows were two-baggers, while the rest were singles.

He is showing no inclination to relinquish the lead.

Babe Ruth is clinging to second place with .365 with Jameson, of Cleveland, third with .363. The Boston Red Sox, followed by the Detroit Tigers, in fifth place with .345.

Goslin, of Washington and Sheely of Chicago, have been doing some telling work with their bats and Harry Hellmann of the Tigers who set the pace almost since the start of the season, is getting no worse.

Ruth added four home runs to his collection, bringing it to 24. Collins of Chicago, has not much competition on the bases, the White Sox captain having pilfered 21.

Other leading hitters:
Goslin, Washington, .344; Sheely, Chicago, .338; Hellmann, Detroit, .337; Prothro, Washington, .333; Moss, Chicago, .332; Neusel, New York, .331; Collins, Boston, .331.

The hitting in the National League has been consistent. The leaders remain undisturbed with Hornsby, of St. Louis, showing the way with .352. Wheat of Brooklyn, batting second, with .329, and Snyder of the Giants, third with .354. Kelly of the Giants, is fourth with .351.

Ernest of Cincinnati, crabbled off a flock of hits before Daubert returned to the game and the substitute first sacker of the Reds therefore figures among the first five with .346.

Although Fournier, of Brooklyn, has been swinging a mean club in the distant hitting, he has engaged in general average. Fournier has connected with 18 homers, while Williams, of Philadelphia, and Hornsby, are tied for second honors with nine apiece.

Other leading hitters:
Fournier, Brooklyn, .346; Young, New York, .345; Roush, Cincinnati, .345; Fournier, Brooklyn, .337; Griggs, Chicago, .335; Grantham, Chicago, .326; Frisch, New York, .325.

SUGAR IN MOONSHINE

(By The Associated Press.)
COLUMBIA, S. C., July 11.—The ups and downs of the sugar market have a real meaning for the making of moonshine, according to Robert Kirksey, United States Marshal for the western district of South Carolina. His jurisdiction includes that portion of the mountainous regions of the State known commonly as the "Dark Corner," which had a reputation for producing "good corn" in blockade stills long before the Volstead edict.

Sugar and molasses, Kirksey said, play an important part in the manufacture of moonshine liquor, and the lower the price of these staples the higher the profits of the manufacturer, who often buy sugar by the ton.

ANDERSON'S BOOK MEETS OPPOSITION

NEW YORK, July 11.—The censorship of Sink Sing is casting a shadow over the heralded book, "Behind the Bars for Banishing Bars," being written now by William H. Anderson, former anti-saloon leader. It seems that statements today by Warden Lewis E. Jones that it will result in a conflict between the mighty pen and the clashing blue pencil. For said Warden Jones, Anderson must submit words for the book to censorship, and therefore it is believed that Anderson's pen will lose much of its sting against the men he says have made him the martyr of prohibition, via the conviction for forgery route.

According to the National Statistics Committee, the worst breach of etiquette made last year was by the young man who put his best girl flowers on Mother's Day.

IT PREVENTS TUBERCULOSIS

DR. ALBERT CALMETTE

BY MILTON BRONNER.
(NEA Service Writer)

PARIS, July 10.—French medical men are hoping the name of Dr. Albert Calmette will be added to the galaxy of immortal scientists, by reason of a vaccine for tuberculosis with which he and his collaborators have been experimenting for some years.

Following the modest doctor's own injunctions, and not desiring to raise any false hopes among the world's suffering masses, they are all quietly waiting what they say and write about the Calmette vaccine with a very big "if."

Calmette, vice director of the Pasteur Institute here, has communicated the results of his experiments to the conservative Academy of Medicine, where his modest remarks have been received with unusual applause.

Briefly, Calmette has worked out a living culture of tubercular bacilli, so attenuated by laboratory processes, that it will not give any animal tuberculosis. On the other hand, his experiments lead him to believe that if it is administered to a young animal, up to now immune from tuberculosis, the vaccine will confer upon it complete immunity.

This wonder worker has briefly been named "B. C. G."

Calmette began his experiments with animal subject to tuberculosis. He inoculated young calves born of tubercular cattle.

They were unharmed by the vaccine and were thereafter revaccinated once a year. One hundred and twenty-seven underwent the treatment, thanks to the intelligent cooperation of French farmers. All these animals have remained in good health.

The tests seemed to establish the vaccine was inoffensive and efficacious.

Calmette then experimented with anthropoid apes whose reactions to microbes and toxins resemble those of man. The same success attended these trials.

Emboldened by this and with the consent of the parents, he then vaccinated 247 nursing children. All are in good health, although many of them live in localities where children are liable to tuberculosis.

It is not claimed that the vaccine will cure tuberculosis in adults.

SOUTHERN CHAMPION DEFENDS HIS TITLE

(By The Associated Press.)
TAMPA, Fla., July 11.—"Boots" Antley retained his mythical southern featherweight title by winning the judge's decision over Artie McCann in a scheduled ten-round bout here tonight. It was a whirlwind fight from the first bell to the last but Antley's margin was so marked there was no question of the result. Antley weighed 124 1-2 while McCann weighed 128. Antley won the first four rounds and McCann the fifth the sixth was a draw and Antley took the seventh and eighth. McCann came back strong in the ninth and won that round and the tenth also. He started too late, as Antley had piled up too great a lead for him to overcome.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER SAYS—

The sweeping success of the good Maxwell is squarely due to the fact that it affords the most advanced engineering, at a price within reach of every one who can afford a car at all.

As in the Chrysler Six, scientific engineering has now produced such revolutionary results that unless a man at least tests them himself, he cannot be sure of securing the highest motoring satisfaction.

Maxwell's most recent development has to do with notable improvement in every phase of riding, driving and performance, economy and long life, and the reduction of vibration to a degree never before thought possible in a four.

MYSTERY SHIP BOBS UP IN OCEAN, CREW GONE, LIFE BOATS UNTOUCHED

By L. C. OWEN
(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—In the floating derelict of a ninety-ton wooden schooner now adrift aimlessly about in the lanes of ocean travel somewhere between San Francisco and Panama, maritime authorities here today have a mysterious tragedy of the sea which is one of the strangest ever recorded. The mystery derelict is that of the Schooner Panvieko, apparently a ship without a country, without registry at any port, and so far as can be learned, a vessel upon which the maritime authorities of all the Seven Seas are unable to shed any explanation.

Equally baffling as the question of the place from which the mystery ship hailed is the fate that overtook her and what became of her captain and crew, presumed to have numbered about 27 men.

First word regarding the half sunken hulk of the Panvieko and of the tragic but unsolved fate which seems to have overtaken her has just been brought to this Port by the steamship Satsuma, en route from New York to the Orient.

The derelict was almost rammed by the Satsuma off the western coast of Costa Rica several days ago.

When the master of the Satsuma tried to hail her there was no answer. Also she carried no lights and it was noted that she sailed such an erratic course that something must be wrong. So the Satsuma stood by until daylight.

When a boarding party was sent to the Panvieko the next morning they found her hold full of water, most of her cargo jettisoned and evidences that she had been through a terrific storm. Captain and crew were missing. The only living thing aboard the vessel was a fox terrier, evidently the ship's mascot, which was almost dead from hunger and thirst.

The mystery was further deepened when it was found that all the lifeboats were untouched upon davits, and there was nothing to explain how the skipper and crew left their waterlogged ship.

While sailors from the Satsuma were aboard the Panvieko, another vessel, the American tanker Cecil County, drove into sight and also sent out a boarding party.

The two boarding crews, despite a long search, were unable to find anything which would tell from what port the Panvieko sailed or whether she was bound. The ship's log and her papers were missing, while the water in the hold had erased the labels and shipping tags upon the small part of the cargo that remained unjettisoned.

That boarding party of the Cecil County took off the terrier mascot, carrying it eastward with them to Atlantic seaboard ports.

The mystery regarding the Panvieko was still further increased when the Satsuma reached San Francisco and reported her findings to the government hydrographic officers. Search of Lloyd's and other registries failed to show any vessel of such name.

Apparently the ill-fated vessel was a ship without a country, bound from nowhere to nowhere, and with nobody to mourn the tragic end that overtook her.

According to members of the Satsuma's crew, it is possible but more probable that the Panvieko's captain and crew were washed overboard in a storm. On the other hand, it is probable that the captain would have been carrying the ship's log and other papers with him when he lost his life. That the skipper and crew escaped with their lives also is regarded as impossible because of the untouched lifeboats.

RICH DERBY WILL BE RUN AT CHICAGO TODAY

CHICAGO, July 11.—With the prospects of an attendance of 40,000 spectators, the $20,000 Chicago derby at a point today by Governor E. Lee Trinkle, it was announced. To comply with the recommendation of the commission of simplification and economy it is hoped by the general assembly, the governor appointed only seven members to the board which heretofore has had a membership of fourteen.

The new board follows:
John T. Daniels of Cape Charles, one year; Dr. H. M. Miles, Norton two years; Dr. W. M. Smith, Berryville, three years; Dr. Guy R. Harrison, Richmond, four years; Dr. W. T. Graham, Richmond, five years; Dr. George B. Lawson, Roanoke, six years; Dr. Lawrence T. Royster, University of Virginia, seven years.

Dr. Miles is the only new member of the board, the others having served in old board of fourteen members.

TO DEPORT ALIENS ON SHIP

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW ORLEANS, July 11.—Fourteen Chinese and twelve Hungarians, passengers on the schooner Abeona, captured yesterday by a Coast Guard cutter after a six-hour chase from Barataria Bay to La Fite, on the lower Louisiana coast, were held today at the immigration station in Algiers for deportation.

Captain Henry Ohlmutz, commander of the schooner, in-bound from Havana, was under arrest while Federal authorities were trying to determine if operations of the Abeona were connected with an alleged smuggling organization with headquarters in New Orleans and Havana.

MAKE LEGION CONVENTION A SUCCESS

The citizens of Danville are looking forward with extraordinary interest to the American Legion Convention which will be held here, August 25-27. This will be the first opportunity for the people of Danville to do something big for the boys who did their bit during the world war, and said goodbye to their friends and loved ones and shouldered their rifles and marched to the battle fields of France in order that the spirit of liberty might survive. There is nothing too good for these soldier boys who experienced the hardships of the camp and the battle front to give to the whole world liberty and freedom as a precious heritage, and to crush the iron heel of militaryism once for all. When that illustrious Virginian, whom history has decreed the greatest American of them all, sensed the situation and realized that to save the world to democracy, it would be necessary for the brawn and youth of our country to sail forth to the fray and that world freedom could be bought only by the action of America, Woodrow Wilson, sent forth the call to the colors. The Old Dominion state acquitted herself most creditably, and the deeds of her sons and daughters will be as indelibly inscribed on history's pages as their red blood was stamped on the poppy fields of France.

When the call came and the boys of Old Virginia hurried away to the training camps and donned their uniforms, they were hailed as heroes, and there was nothing too good for them then. The best of everything was reserved for them and the girls all vied with each other in kissing them goodbye and bidding them Godspeed. The war has been over nearly six years now and the boys who held the day in No Man's Land, have laid aside the uniforms and the crosses of honor that they won for heroism at the battle's front, and have returned to private life, where they will help to advance the country that they saved to liberty's cause. But they are still heroes—and thanks to the American Legion, and to the American citizens who will not forget them, they will receive the honors due them, and the record of their deeds will be recorded in a prominent place in the memory books, not only of our country, but of every country in the world that was arrayed on the side of right. With the recollection of the events of those trying days still fresh in their memory, and of the little white crosses that mark the last resting place of those who went out braver to return, having been cleared to sleep the last sleep on the blood-soaked battle fields of France, there is no question but that the citizens of Danville will put forth the very best of themselves in the preparation of the convention. Yea, they will open plain the wide doors of the city and the hospitality for which Danville has always been famous, and they will be glad to have the boys who saved the world, and the American citizens who will not forget them, and the record of their deeds will be recorded in a prominent place in the memory books, not only of our country, but of every country in the world that was arrayed on the side of right. With the recollection of the events of those trying days still fresh in their memory, and of the little white crosses that mark the last resting place of those who went out braver to return, having been cleared to sleep the last sleep on the blood-soaked battle fields of France, there is no question but that the citizens of Danville will put forth the very best of themselves in the preparation of the convention.

LA FOLLETTE AND THE G. O. P.

Announcement by United States Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, of his presidential candidacy draws attention to some concrete results menacing to the G. O. P. as contrasted with the possibilities of embarrassment of the Democratic party by the deadlock experienced by the latter in its New York convention. Keeping in mind that La Follette was voted for the presidential nomination by his state in the Republican convention, his candidacy represents, to whatever extent it may reach, a distinct bolt against the Republican meeting. The Republican party was further embarrassed by the fact that one of its distinguished members, former Governor Lowden, of Illinois, refused to accept its vice-presidential nomination after it had been formally given to him. Meanwhile there is the record that the Republican majority in congress has repeatedly refused to co-operate with the Republican president. Whereas the opponents of the Democratic party are simply "hoping" that its convention may fail, it is a matter of record that the Republican party in the past three years and a half not only has been unable to carry out any constructive program for the government, but has failed in the effort to govern itself.

The Democratic party will be unable to master the situation developed by the deadlock in its convention. In 1912 the Republican party suffered a bolt from its convention that caused it to run third in the election that fall, reducing it to only eight electoral votes. Never in its history of nearly 130 years did the Democratic party suffer anything like such a defeat. If the Democratic convention finds the happy solution it is striving for, the naming of a leader who will rise above factional differences and unite the elements that have been wrangling over certain features, it will have succeeded gloriously where the Republican party has repeatedly failed in the past 12 or 14 years. Within a short time the troubles of the convention will have been forgotten in the enthusiasm for the new leader.

As in the launching of a new political movement all old parties naturally are denounced as failures, so the group that has chosen La Follette to lead it is now arraigning the Democratic as well as the Republican party. This simply recalls that in 1912 the Progressive party, which represented a bolt from the Republican fold, also felt obliged, in seeking to justify the bringing of a new political organization into the field, to arraign the Democratic party as well. Otherwise nothing would have been left to the bolters but to vote Democratic—which many of them did in 1916 in recognition of the progressive program carried out by the Democratic administration.

No matter what the La Follette group may say against the Democratic party, it stands out that the Roosevelt Progressive party went out of existence during the Wilson Democratic administration. As referred to, the Democratic record was so satisfactory to many Progressives that they joined with the Democrats in 1916 in re-electing Wilson. In less than four years after the return of the Republican party to power, however, another movement for a Progressive party is in the field.

SUGAR DID WELL FOR SOME

"It is only by adherence to such a policy," says the Republican platform in its passage on super-protective tariffs, "that the well-being of the consumers can be safeguarded and that there can be assured to American agriculture American labor and to American manufacturers a return to perpetuate American standards of life." Just how the Fordney-McCumber Tariff Act has served to assure American manufacturers of sugar the "American standards of life" mentioned above, is pretty well indicated in the last report of the Great Western Sugar Company, a Colorado industry and the largest beet sugar enterprise in the world. In the company's first full fiscal year after the enactment of the Fordney schedules, ending February, 1924, the company made $5,579,113 in the preceding year. Dividends in the last year were $2,450,000 against $1,502,050 in the previous year. Thus, it seems to be proved the Fordney schedule on imported sugar operates to make the unnatural difference in the sugar industry a substantial dividend.

Those not careful about what they get into find it is trouble.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.
John Ainsley, a man of education and breeding, became a master hood—preying upon other thieves. Posing as a millionaire, he goes to the estate of a wealthy retired broker, Kernochan, to steal a large ruby ring belonging to Kernochan's daughter, who is engaged to Ernest Vantine, chief owner of a detective agency.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.
Vantine smirked. "I am dealing with a desperate criminal, Alice. But Ainsley is dealing with a detective of some reputation. What a criminal, this man, leave this house without the object for which he has risked his liberty? Certainly not. Look at his face. The ring is somewhere in this room; he picked it up."

"Oh, end this farce!" I cried. I stretched my hands wide. The girl was seated in a chair. She wore an elaborate costume, piled high upon her head. In the depression above her crown, formed by a coil of chestnut hair, she held a small, attractive possession, placed the Grand Duke's ring. My hands were quicker than their eyes, and I stepped closer to Vantine, saying wearily: "Search me!"

Twenty minutes later I was dressed again. Miss Kernochan had returned. She had sat down again in the chair. I had plucked the ring from her hair and it reposed snugly in my waistcoat pocket. Once again, in those days I was an amateur; but I leave it to you who read my memoirs, to decide whether or not I showed, even at the outset of my career, flashes of that genius which since have rendered me incomparable. "Let's talk this over," suggested Kernochan. He made a wry mouth. "You have us on the hip, Mr. Ainsley. But you must realize that you can never take the ring out of this room. And we are convinced that it is somewhere in this room."

"IF ALL DETECTIVES ARE AS STUPID AS YOU—"

Vantine laughed, but there was anger in his eyes. "You're welcome, Mr. Kernochan," he said. "I don't want a lawsuit any more than you want a criminal prosecution. And we'll have one without the other. But I do want the ring." He ordered the butler, who had assisted in the second search of me, to bring coffee. We're all excited and under a strain, and a cup of coffee will help us to look at the matter sensibly.

The butler left. I sat down. "Go ahead," I said to Kernochan. He argued, pleaded and threatened. I was adamant. I told him that I had been insulted, and that if my departure were much longer impeded, I would have satisfaction in the courts. The butler entered, bringing coffee. I refused to partake, and started boldly for the door. Vantine leaped to his feet. "You can't go," he cried. "I turned and advanced to the table on which were set the cups of coffee. I guessed, I thought, his intention."

"I suppose," I said, "that you are going to search me again." I really thought that he was; mind you, the man was beside himself in wrathful humiliation. Only the fear that I might after all be what I had claimed to be, and the fear of ridicule which I had promised, restrained him. But I did not know that he would be restrained, and so I slipped the ring into a cup of coffee, not, however, into the cup that had been set at the vacant place at the table, which was meant for me. I slipped it into Vantine's.

He colored furiously. He felt as ridiculous as he was. "No, I'm not going to search you," he almost roared. "I bowed to him. 'In that case,' I said, 'I shall drink Mr. Kernochan's coffee.'"

Something within me gave warning. Instead of picking up Vantine's cup, I chose the one meant for me, and before I could put it to my lips, Vantine's finger arrested my wrist. "So that's where you hid it!" he cried.

Oh, excuse me, said the girl. I made a mistake. The title is "The Scarlet Launch."
After a search, the library assistant reported that no book with that title was listed in the card catalog.
But I am sure you have the book, the girl insisted and produced a slip of paper on which something was written. Then she blushed. "Oh, I beg your pardon, she said, it's 'The Ruby Yacht' by a man named Omar I want."

An Inning For the Aged

Speaking before the American Medical Association, Dr. L. I. Dublin said that middle aged and old people are about to have an inning. We have all heard it said that the very great improvement in health conditions brought about in the last thirty years related to the health of babies and older children. While having a baby is still a dangerous job, being a baby has become fairly safe. Thanks to milk campaigns, fly campaigns, clean-up campaigns, and infant welfare moments, babies now pass safely through the hot weather season and when frost comes exclaim: "Never touched me" or its equivalent.

Along with these "point with pride" there have gone such statements as "death rates of middle life increasing," "heart disease increasing," "cancer increasing," and so on. Dr. Dublin says the death rates of middle aged and young people are no longer increasing. When we take account of the larger number of people who are living to reach the life period and when we weigh all things carefully, we find that a few years ago that group reached the worst, and since then their death rates have been falling. This fall will continue for years, he thinks.

The principal reason is that these middle aged people were better protected in youth. The man who gets through childhood without having had rheumatism, growing pains, tonsillitis, measles, scarlet fever and such reaches full maturity with a better heart, better kidneys and better organs generally for the protection he has had. To bring about the better measure of possible improvement, another kind of protection must be added. To do this is up to the middle aged and old himself. That problem consists in a periodic examination to discover the general condition of the organs. This should be undertaken at least once a year. If the examination shows that any organ is giving down, the proper treatment should be given. Stopping the crawfish hole in the levee today prevents a deluge tomorrow.

During the same period just ended, I did much walking in the country, most of it mountain climbing. Father of Bryan Once Va. Resident

(By The Associated Press.)
 ROANOKE, Va., July 11.—That Charles Bryan, democratic vice-presidential nominee, and his famous brother, William, are sons of a former resident of the town of Salem, near here, is related in a story obtained today from Dr. G. M. Maxwell, of this city. The story, briefly, is as follows:
 The grandfather of the Bryan boys was a resident of Roanoke county in the early part of the nineteenth century. His name is not given, but it is known that he was an elder in the Presbyterian church of Salem and that his body is buried there in the old West End cemetery. The old Bryan homestead, which is described as a big brick house, is said to have been situated some miles from the town of Salem, near the spot where the present Fort Smith home, ancient and palatial home owned by George W. Payne, stands.
 Two sons of the older Bryan who was an elder in the Presbyterian church, bade goodbye to the family many years ago and set out toward the west. Impelled by the pioneer longing to go farther and farther they pushed far into the west before they halted. The two started together, but after traveling together some distance decided to take different trails.

 One of the brothers, Elias Lillard Bryan, the father of the two eminent Nebraskans, went into the northwest. He is known to have lived for a while at Salem, Illinois and here both William Jennings and Charles W. Bryan were born, according to the account of the lives that has been published. While no proof may be had of the fact, the natural assumption is that Salem, Illinois was founded by the elder Bryan after leaving Virginia and that he naturally named the place after his home town in Virginia.

 FOREIGN MAIL SENT BY AIR
 The first piece of mail destined for a foreign country to be carried on the first lap of its journey by the new transcontinental air mail service was received at the General Post Office last night. It was a letter addressed to Miss Yvonne Edgley, "Canargro," Neutral Bay, Sydney, N. S. W., Australia, and was sent by R. Cyril Longdon, "Normancourt," Salisbury, England, who left by the Aquitania on his return to England from a trip round the world.
 The letter weighed fourteen ounces and the postage necessary to send it by air mail to San Francisco and then by boat to New Zealand and Australia was $4.07. Mr. Longdon said that he was anxious to get the letter off to San Francisco in time to catch the T. hiti of the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand, the next sailing of a mail steamer for Australia. He found that if he sent it by ordinary mail on the train it would not reach San Francisco in time so he decided to pay the air mail rate of 24 cents an ounce from New York to San Francisco and the additional foreign postage rate from San Francisco to the destination. When the letter is delivered to Miss Edgley in Australia it will have established a record in fast delivery of mail between New York and Sydney.

SUE RUDOLPH VALENTINO
 The troubles of Rudolph Valentino over his original contract to work for the Famous-Players-Lasky corporation, were increased yesterday when he was served in an action brought to recover commission alleged to be due for the closing of the contract with the movie corporation. The action has been brought in the interest of Robertson & Webb, agents who claim to have brought about the agreement in the name of Elizabeth A. Kelly a resident of this city, who is named in the papers as the assignee of the claim.
 According to the papers Robertson & Webb claim that they obtained a contract for Valentino to work for the first year for $52,000; for the second year for $104,000 and for the third year for $156,000. They were to receive commissions 10 per cent. of the first year's salary and 5 per cent. of the following years. It is stated that he paid the brokers $2,532. The balance due, the brokers say, is $15,626 and Valentino is being sued for that amount.

Manufacturers—Sell and Distribute Your Merchandise In This Populous State

Here is a big market right at home. You can reach it efficiently and the low cost of selling and low freight rates will enable you to meet competition of distant manufacturers. Sell your goods in the South. Advertise and sell them in Georgia—one of the South's greatest states.

Georgia Is A Highly-Developed State

Georgia is the largest state east of the Mississippi River. It is one of the first manufacturing states of the South and is consequently highly developed. Georgia has attained fourth place among the agricultural states. It produces more peaches than any state in the Union; and is a great cotton state. Other agricultural products are peanuts, sweet potatoes, corn, etc.

Among its leading industries are cotton and woolen goods, lumber, cotton-seed products, leather, machinery and farm implements. Savannah is a large port. Atlanta is the great distributing center.

Sales managers will do well to lay out an advertising and sales campaign and go after the Georgia market this fall.

VARIANCE OF DEATH TOLL TUBERCULOSIS

There is a remarkable difference in the tuberculosis death rates prevailing among the white urban wage-earning population of different sections of the United States and Canada, according to death claim figures compiled by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. In both countries the 15,000,000 industrial policy holders comprise about one-seventh of the total population and about one-fourth of the city wage earners. While the average death rate from tuberculosis in this group last year was 90.5 per 100,000 in the United States, it was 111.5 per 100,000 in Canada.

This is the more astonishing when one reads that "the Western Provinces of Canada have far and away the lowest death rates among their industrial populations, both for tuberculosis and for all causes. The West North Central States including Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa which have the next best record for tuberculosis, rank third in general mortality. The East South Central, West South Central and South Atlantic States, together with the Eastern Provinces of Canada, have high general death rates and also high tuberculosis mortality." (It should be remembered that this ranking is based solely on the Metropolitan Life death claim figures for white industrial policyholders, chiefly city dwellers, and would differ were the rural population considered.)

The regional distribution of tuberculosis presents an interesting picture, the company's statistician points out. "The industrial populations of the cities show higher tuberculosis rates for the most part below the Mason and Dixon line. In the South Atlantic group Delaware is the only one of eight states whose industrial population death rate (from tuberculosis) is below that for the whole country. The rate for each of the East South Central States particularly Kentucky and Tennessee, is far in excess of the average."

Among the Northern States, on the other hand, every New England State except Rhode Island exhibits a below average rate; so does every East North Central State except Indiana; every Mountain State except Colorado; every Pacific Coast State except California; and every West North Central State without exception. The most fertile field for the anti-tuberculosis movement in this country lies among the urban wage-earners of the South Atlantic and East South Central States and of Louisiana.

"The lowest rates recorded were those for Utah and Idaho."

RESUME SELLING ON NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 11.—The selling movement started by the government's crop report of July 2 was resumer at the reopening of the cotton market here Monday. Bearish sentiment based on the end-June yield indication was evidently encouraged by talk of a continued improvement in the crop outlook under favorable weather conditions and by reiterated complaints of a poor demand for cotton goods.

Trade buying was reported on a scale down which appeared to be absorbing a good many contracts for early new crop delivery, however, and after declining to 23 3/4 for October, or nearly two cents a pound from recent high levels, the market turned steady on covering. October rallied to 24.95 or about 1 1/2 points from the lowest before the covering movement subsided and the market made a steady showing at the end of the week owing to continued complaints from the crop in some eastern belt sections and doubt as to whether southwestern rainfalls had been sufficient.

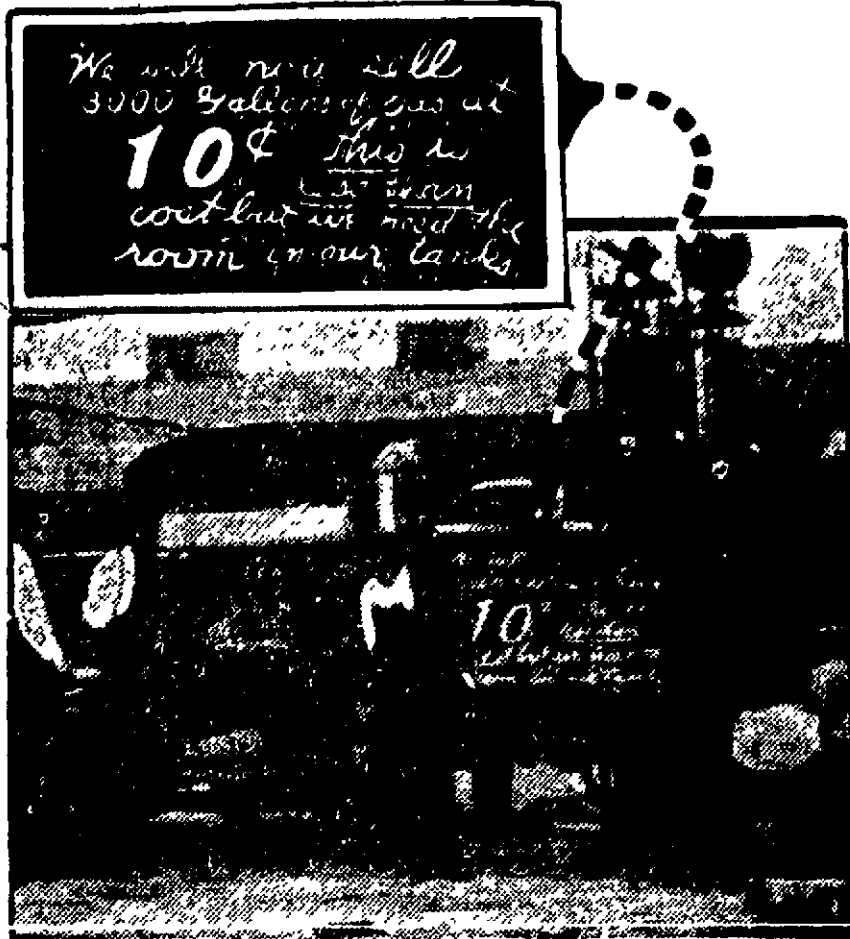

The maintenance of the July premium has been accomplished by reports that cotton was coming here for tender before the end of the month, including small amounts for several southern points and a few thousand bales to be returned from Bremen. Only a few July notices have been issued in spite of these reports and so far this month shipments of the local stock have exceeded the arrivals of consigned cotton.

"MORAL SHAME AND DISGRACE" ON THE NATION CHURCHES SAY

(By The Associated Press.)
 WASHINGTON, July 11.—Assertion that "moral shame and humiliating disgrace" has been brought upon the nation by the disregard of the prohibition law by a "relatively small number" of public officials, is made in a resolution adopted by the administrative committee of the Federal Council of Churches.
 The resolution made public today, was upon all public officials, including officers of the army and navy, the imperative necessity of a conscientious and thorough going personal observance of the law regarding alcoholic beverages.

Ten-Cent Gasoline In Omaha

ELROD'S STATION AND BARGAIN SIGN

OMAHA, Neb., July 12.—Gasoline at bargain prices! Omaha's gas war, playing havoc with the old-line companies, has brought the price of gasoline to a new low price.

E. S. Elrod, who joined the 15-Cent League when gas was selling for 20 1-4 cents, is now at odds with the organization.

He's selling 3,000 gallons of gasoline at 10 cents a gallon.

This is too much for the league. Dr. J. F. Despecher, president, suspects that Elrod plans to frighten other dealers into ceasing their competitive practices and increase the price.

Meanwhile the war is spreading.

Fremont and Lincoln are now in the battle zone. Gas stations there are selling auto juice for 15 cents a gallon.

Governor Charles Bryan has opened a State gas station and is selling at cut prices. He'll continue unless enjoined, he says.

DISAGREEMENT IN FRENCH SENATE ON AMNESTY BILL

(By The Associated Press.)

PARIS, July 11.—Passage of the Amnesty bill through the chamber of deputies seems fated to be marked by frequent suspensions of sittings owing to brawls among the deputies. The one this afternoon arose when the socialist accused the communist party of having sold their country.

A dozen communists, headed by Marcel Cachin, with one bound, rushed at the accuser Henry Lemire, a member of the minority. The fray became general before the ushers could intervene, so president of the Chamber Painleve, donned his hat once more, thereby automatically suspending the sitting.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Terry Druggan, once the head of the noted "valley gang" of reputed beer runners, and now credited with millions invested in breweries, was sentenced today to 15 years in jail and a $10,000 fine each by Federal Judge Wilkerson for contempt of court.

CARBON KNOCK EXPLAINED

What actually happens during what is popularly termed a carbon knock?

Here is an explanation, taken from Lubrication, an oil trade journal:

"After the motor has run a few moments some of the carbon deposits become red hot. Part of the fuel entering the cylinders during the suction stroke is in contact with this hot carbon during the suction and compression strokes and its temperature is raised to a point where spontaneous ignition takes place before the timed electric ignition occurs. There is a consequent rise in temperature and pressure due to combustion, which is further increased by the still upward moving piston on the compression stroke.

We have now present in the combustion chamber the ideal conditions for 'cracking' the fuel. The fuel (gasoline) of today is rather chemically complex in its makeup and when 'cracked' breaks down into more simple compounds, some of which are highly detonating and others less so.

"When the 'cracking' occurs the less stable compounds detonate, setting off the others in the order of their stability. All this, of course, is distinguishable by the ear as a knock, or, as it is called in England, a 'pink'."

Shoppers' Garage For Boston, Plan

BOSTON, July 12.—A department store has set out to solve the parking problem for its customers.

Here in Boston, where streets are narrow and winding, traffic congestion is so great that the city has been compelled practically to eliminate all downtown parking privileges.

Obviously, it has had a discouraging effect upon shoppers.

But the Jordan Marsh Company, realizing the urgent need for a solution of the problem, has announced its plan to build an eight-story garage, accommodating 600 cars, for the exclusive and free use of its customers.

Plans provide for fireproof stairways and passenger elevators as well as double system motor ramps, from one floor to another, with separate ramps for up and down traffic. It will be just as easy to park a car on the eighth floor as on the first, the architects say.

Other features of the garage are waiting rooms, filling stations, washing stalls, supply service and a telephone and signal system connecting with the store so that a car may be ready on request.

Cars will be parked one row deep on each floor and each automobile will have an individual stall. The garage will be located within three minutes of the store.

GASOLINE KEPT CLEAN

A new gasoline filter now on the market is attached to the vacuum tank and is designed so that even water and the finest dirt particles are kept out by a cloth-textured chamomile skin. A glass bowl into which the residue drops shows clearly when it needs cleaning out.

Liquid rubber is being imported into this country at the rate of a quarter million gallons monthly.

About 15,700 lives were lost in auto accidents, exclusive of grade crossing collisions.

Thirty-two per cent. of the persons killed by autos in 1933 were children under 15.

In 1933 there were only 300 autos in the United States and no motor trucks.

Fifth Avenue, New York, is made a one-way street during the rush hours.

Automobile Association of London has started a night aid service for motorists.

Denver is to have a two-mile auto speedway.

Rumania has about 10,300 autos, of which 7500 are passenger cars.

Madrid, Spain, has changed from left to right traffic.

Out of 500 tractor companies organized in 1919, only 2 are still doing business.

California Automobile Association has 48 aid stations for motorists throughout the State.

People who don't look before they leap land in disgust.

Having traversed the narrow thoroughfare and looked up at the tall buildings, some country delegates will return home with a different feeling toward that Wall Street bogey.

Simpler Street Design For Cities

BY ISRAEL KLEIN.

(NEA Service Writer)

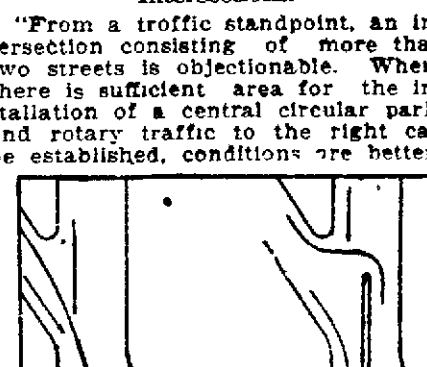

If we would save our descendants the traffic troubles we are having today, we must plan cities of simpler, more direct and more efficient highway design.

This is the lesson we have learned from the mistakes of our ancestors. Engineers already have begun the planning for a future city that will bring praise rather than condemnation for this generation, so far as traffic control is concerned. One of these engineers is Major F. S. Benson of the U. S. army, who is acting engineer commissioner of the District of Columbia. Years of observation and study have resulted in a definite course which Major Benson has mapped out for a city with ideal traffic conditions.

HOW A DIAGONAL STREET MAKES FOR TRAFFIC CONGESTION AT EVERY THIRD INTERSECTION.

From a traffic standpoint, an intersection consisting of more than two streets is objectionable. Where there is sufficient area for the installation of a central circular park, and rotary traffic to the right can be established, conditions are better.

A common intersection with two other streets.

Major Benson objects to diagonal avenues, especially in cities where other streets are cut up in regular order, and make a three-way intersection with the diagonal street about every third street or so. To cure this he has outlined a system of blocking out areas along the diagonal street, so that there would be only two-way intersections.

Even a simple intersection with a diagonal street, he says, is objectionable. The best kind is the right-angle intersection.

Low Grades.

"A street cannot serve satisfactorily as a traffic highway," he continues, "if it has grades as steep as 10 per cent. Even 8 to 9 per cent grades are undesirable. Any grades up to 4 per cent, may be used freely for traffic highways."

"While it is a mistake to make streets too narrow, it is also a mistake to make them too wide. If the streets are unnecessarily wide, land that otherwise would be available for buildings is wasted."

For traffic highways, Major Benson puts a limit of 55 feet in width. This makes room for double car tracks, a line of parked autos on either side, and room enough for another line of moving autos on either side.

Maximum Limit.

The next step in widening the 72 feet, but experience has shown either side, and room enough for another line of moving autos on either side.

Major Benson would limit sizes of vehicles also, as to length and width. He believes 14 feet should be the limit in width, except for street cars.

"Length of vehicles will also need restriction in the near future," he says, "especially if the use of air wheel trucks and trailers develops. In turning a corner an over-long truck is likely to swing wide, take too much space and cause damage to other vehicles."

"Also, too long a vehicle, such as a bus parked facing a curb, entirely closes the traffic lane between parked cars and street cars."

roadway would be to make the width that even though there is room for two lines of moving vehicles between the street car tracks and the middle of this open road space. The result move in one line along the middle parked autos, the motorists tend to be a vehicle width on each side.

The advantage of the 72-foot highway, however, lies in permitting vehicles to park facing the curb, instead of parallel, giving room for more vehicles on busy streets.

The Basic Economy of the Cadillac

It is perhaps true that the average purchaser of a Cadillac is not concerned, primarily, with its economy.

And for just that reason, as he drives the car year after year, he finds added cause for satisfaction in his investment.

He discovers,—what veteran owners of the Cadillac have long realized—that its longevity, its constant, enduring performance, is the truest form of economy.

Because of Cadillac materials, Cadillac engineering and Cadillac craftsmanship, the new V-63 lasts as long as an automobile can last, and with reasonable care out-lives two ordinary cars.

It is practicable to drive it throughout this long range of life, if one wishes, because even after years of service the Cadillac remains consistently fine and fashionable.

Moreover, daily operating costs are moderate, and Cadillac dependability is such that thrifty performance is a rule and even minor adjustments are a rarity.

Thus, the four factors which constitute TRUE economy—freedom from repairs, long mileage at low cost, slow depreciation and high resale value—are so well combined in the Cadillac that many consider it the most economical car.

Guess Who They Are

But you couldn't guess in a year who these folks are? Yet you surely know them—minus their make-up. It is Henry Ford, with the high hat, flowing tie and truck whiskers, up in the driver's seat. And the lady at his left is Mrs. Ford. You will notice, too, they are not riding in a limousine. They are all dolled up this way for a parade in Dearborn, the Detroit suburb, where they live.

DAILY PUZZLE

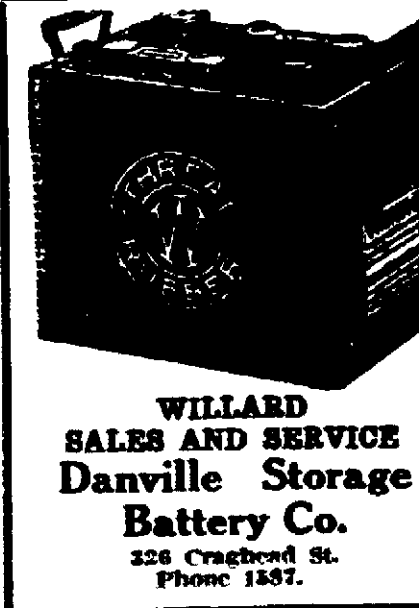

If you read around the ribbon, starting with "The" and ending with "out," you will discover that the sentence is broken in two places. By inserting a word, or words, at the blank crowding, you can complete the sentence. The word must be read twice, and will fill the breaks. It may be read as a single word in one place, and as more than one on the other occasion.

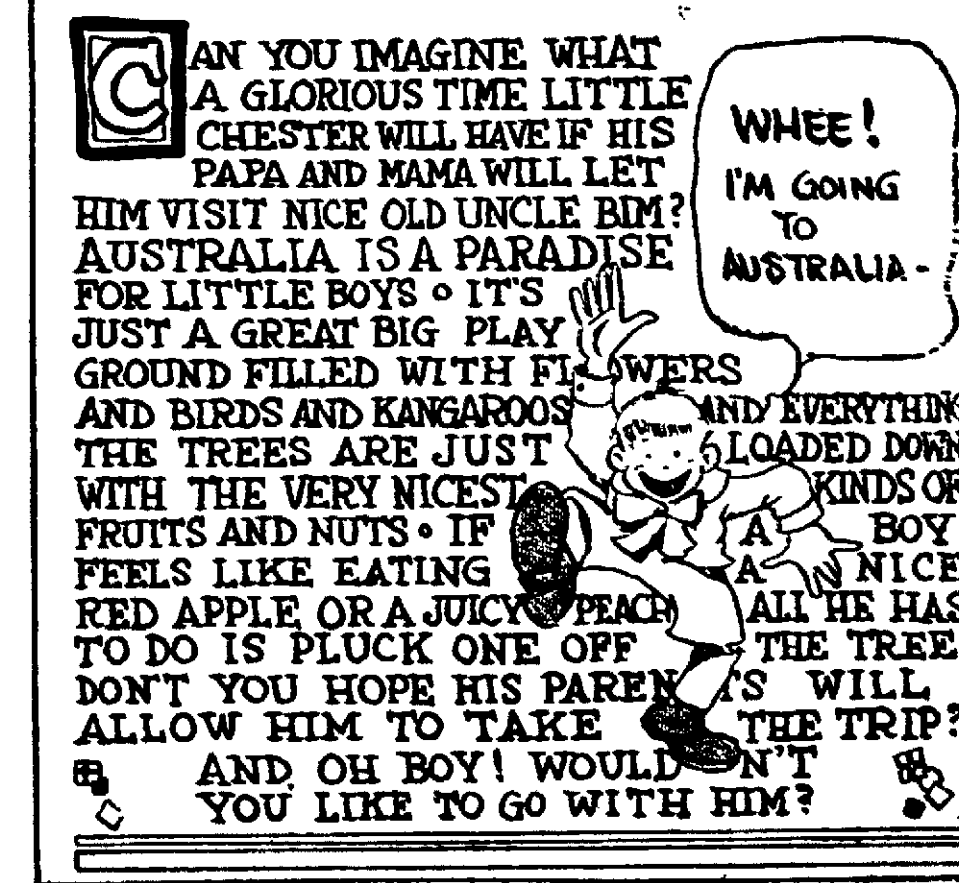

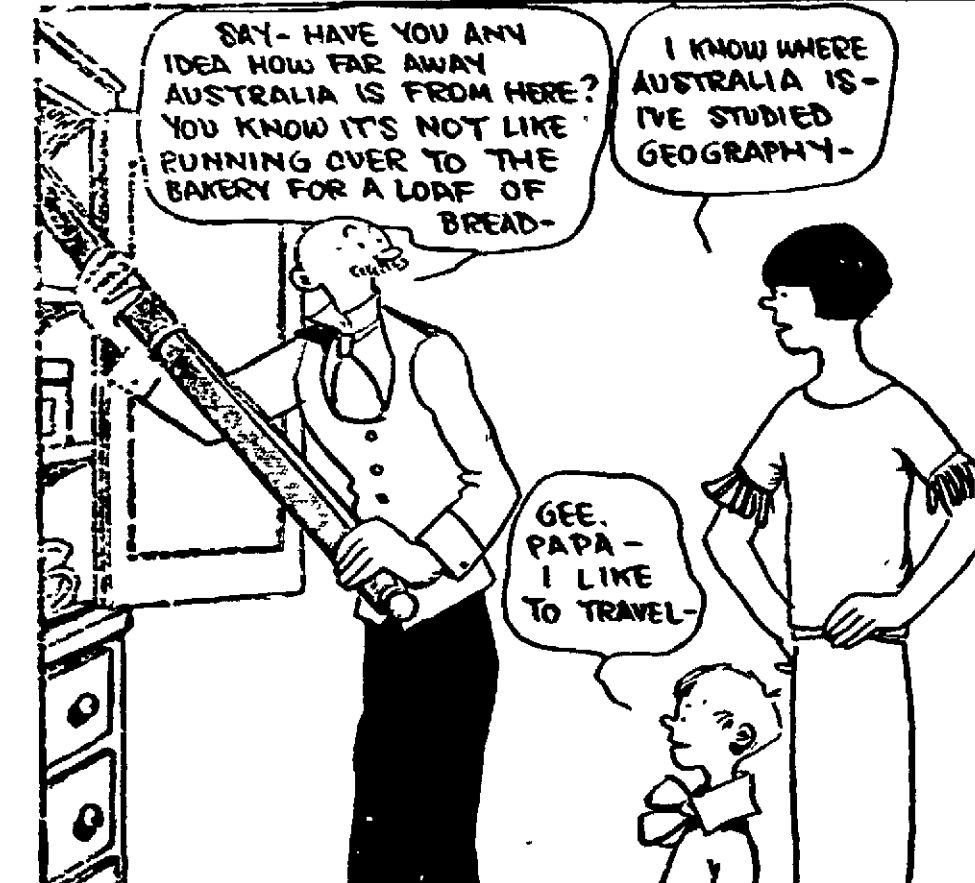

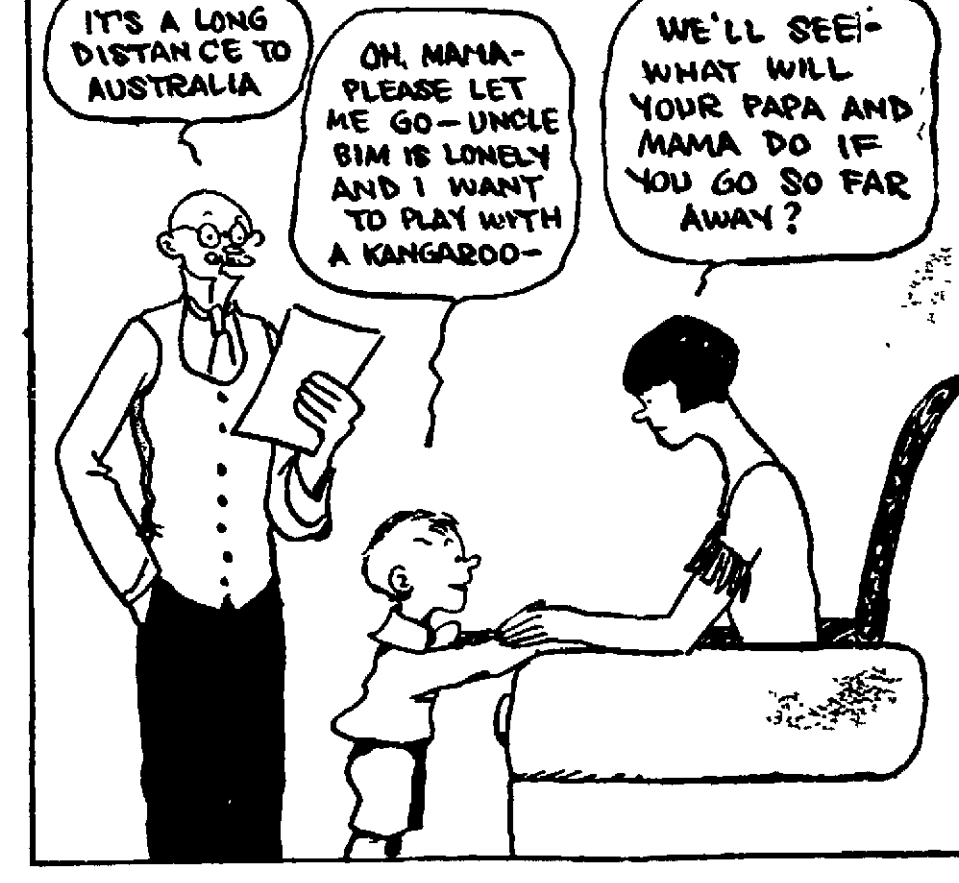

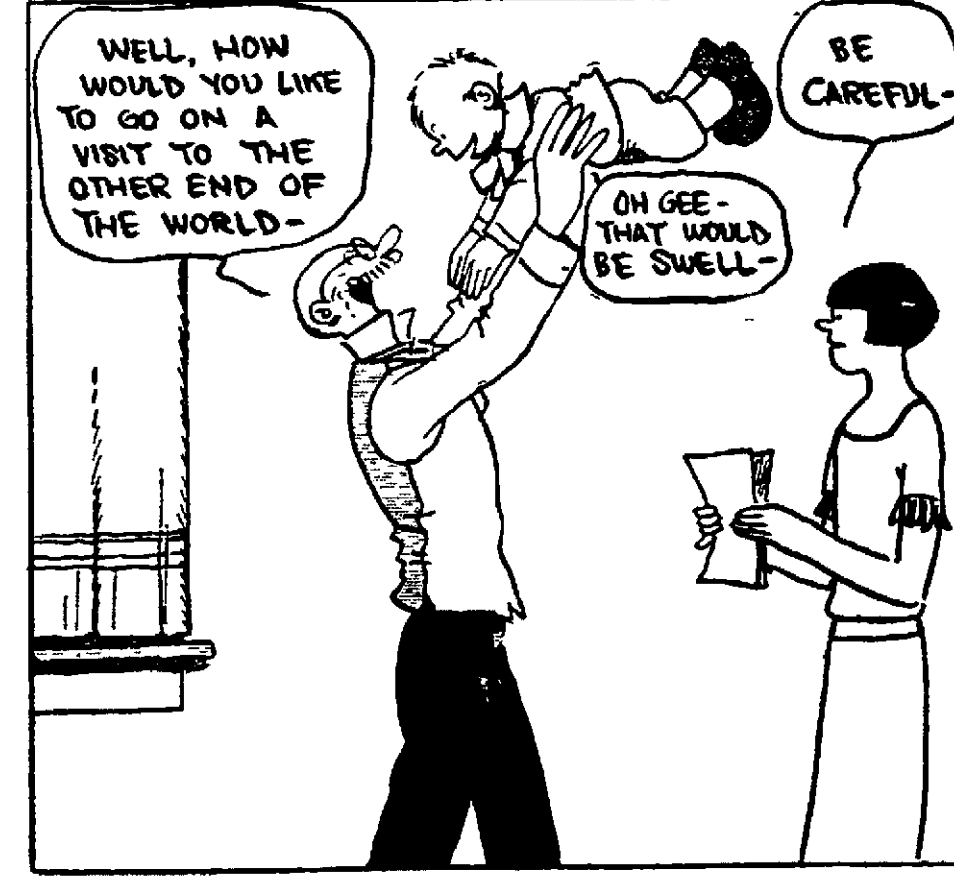

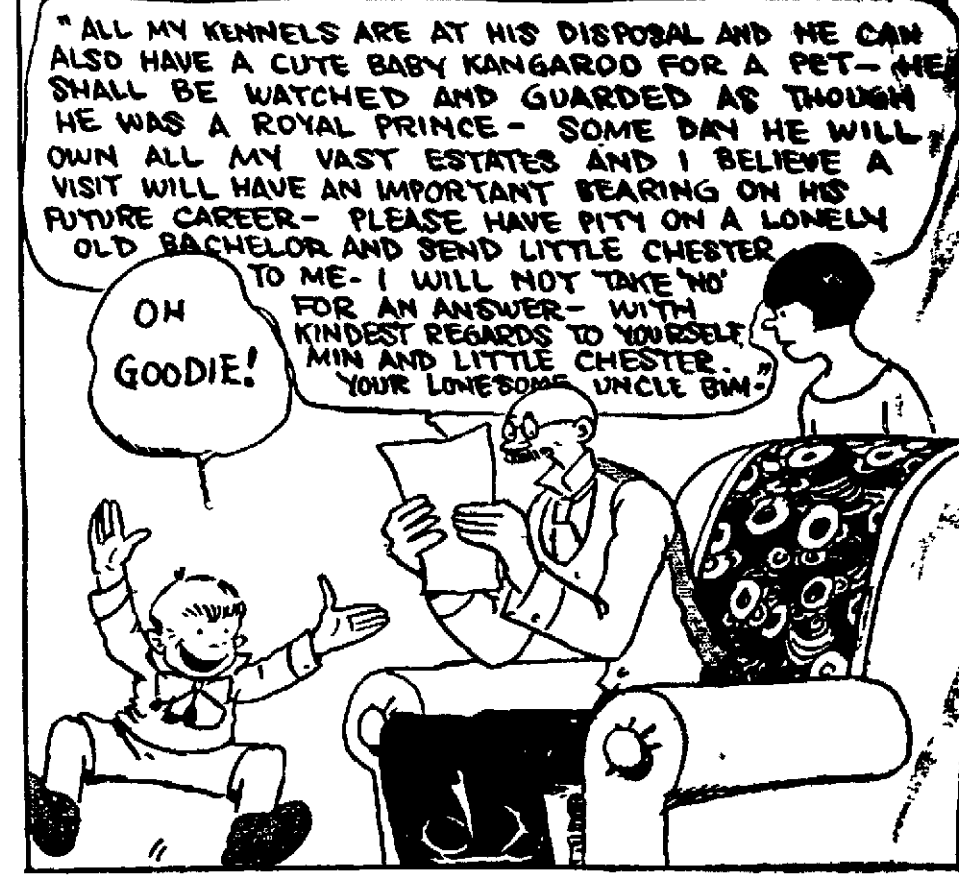

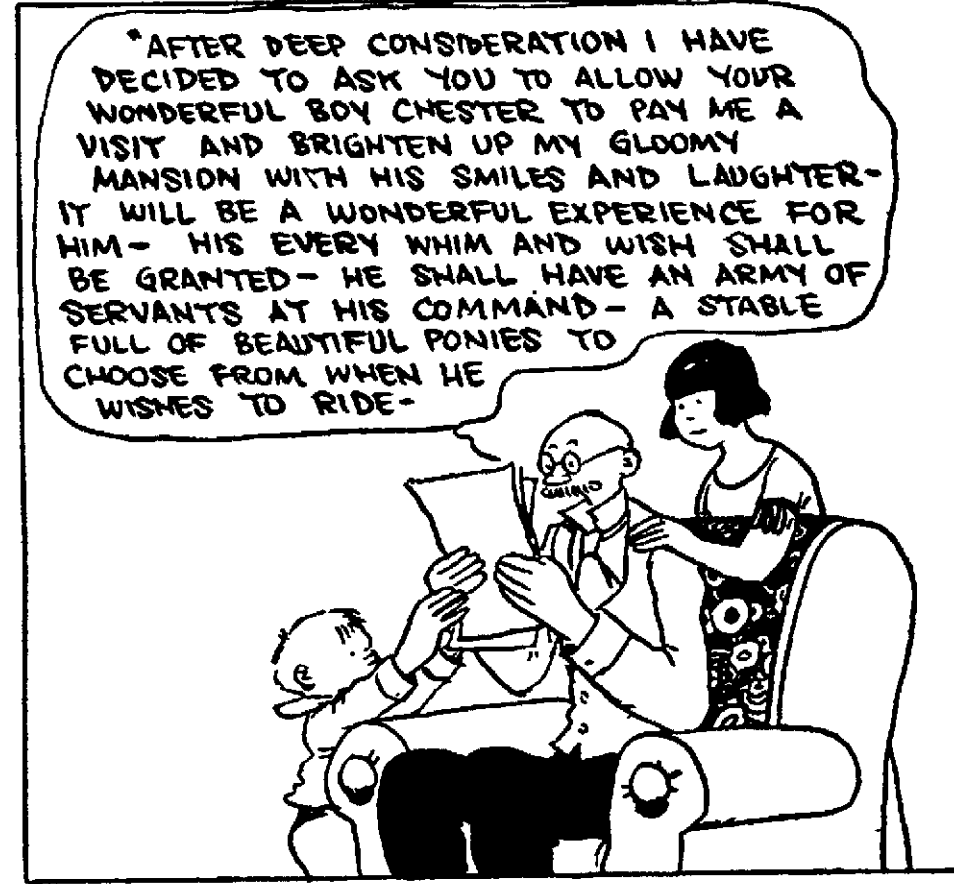

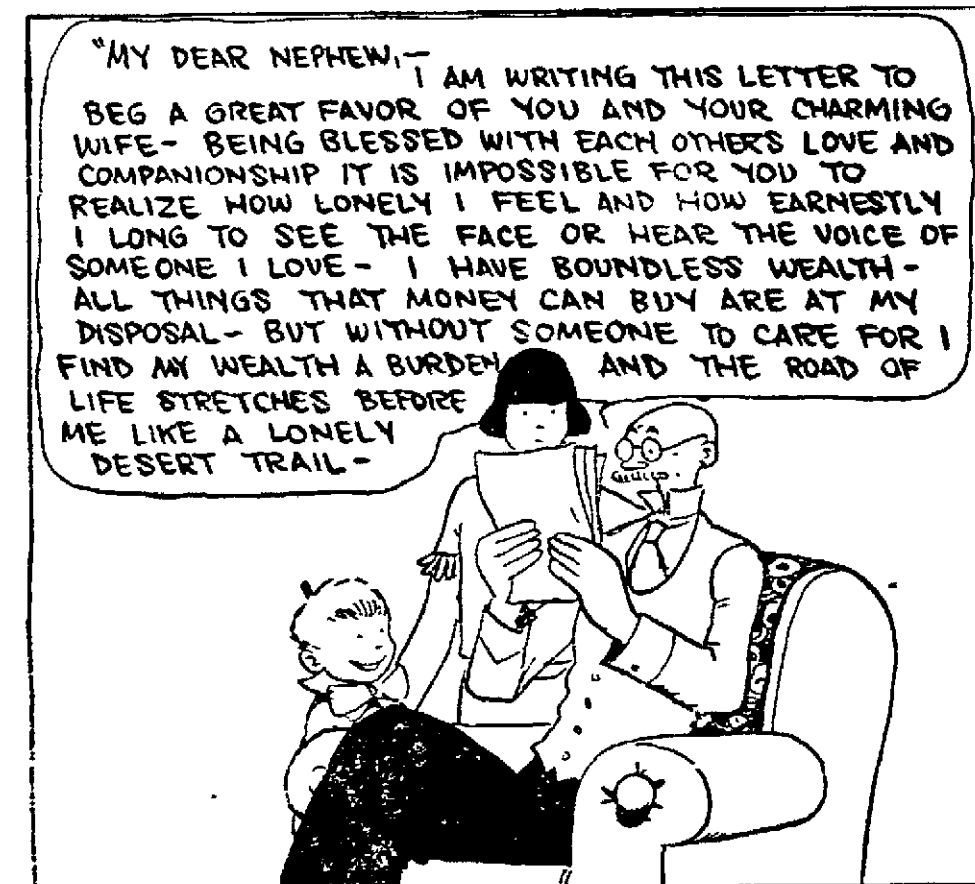

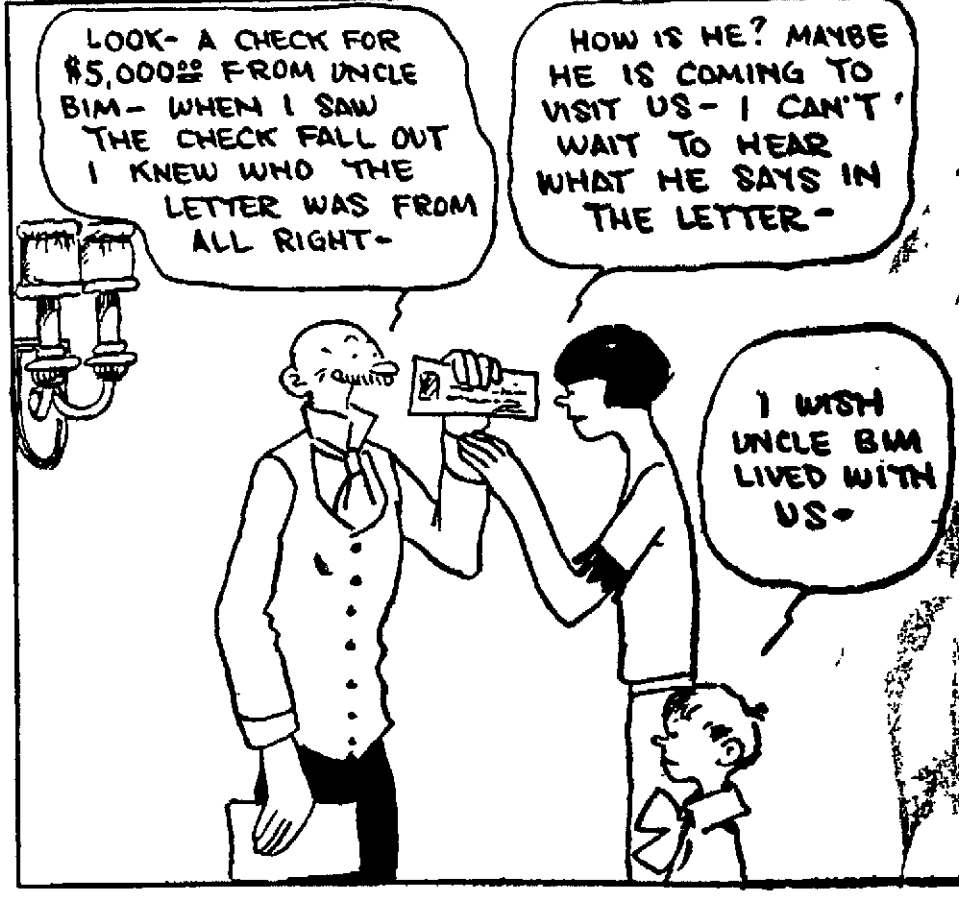

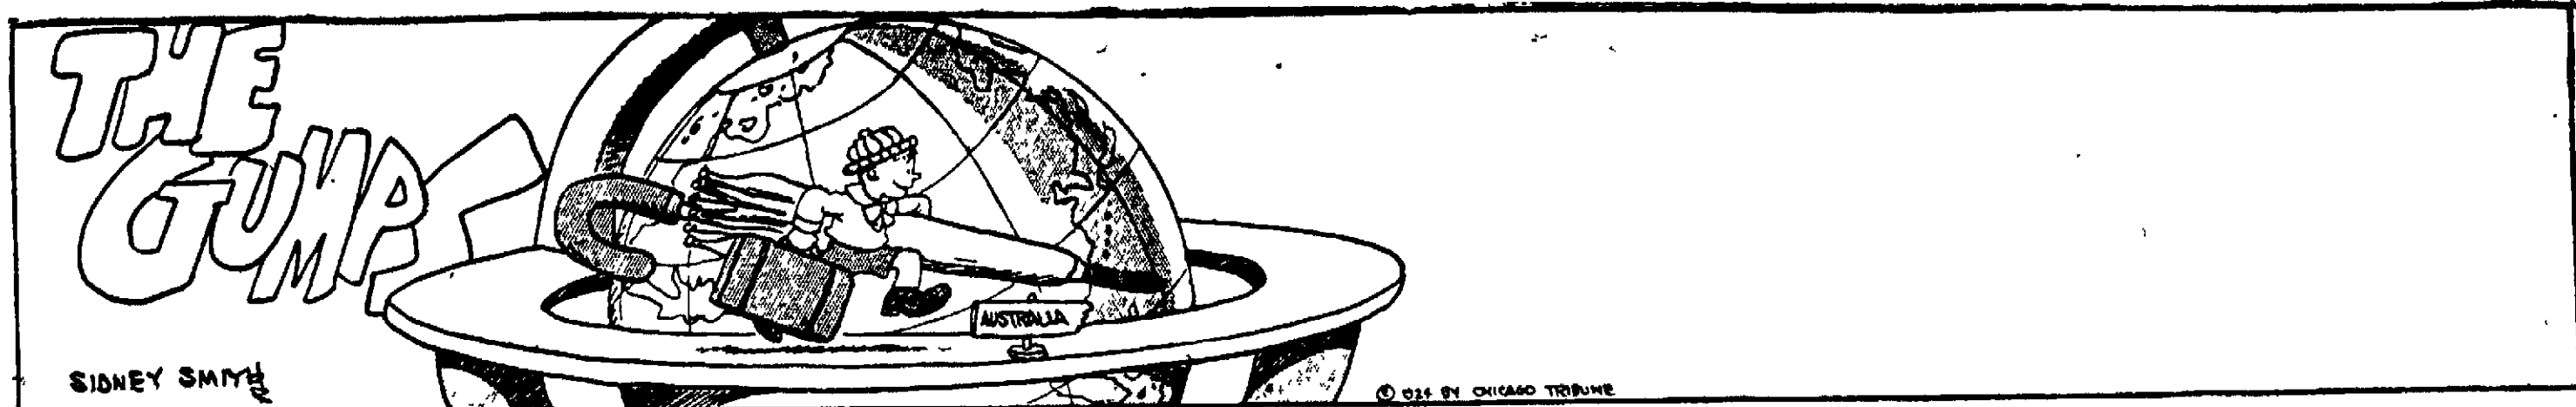

Yesterday's answer:

There were 170 sheep and 70 cows in the field—240 in all. One child gave 100 as the answer, by subtracting 70 from 170, while the other child, multiplying 170 by 70 gave 11,900 as the total.

"The protection of the individual lies at the basis of the Anglo-Saxon liberty," says President Coolidge. There ought to be a law about it.

MINISTER DENIES MURDER CHARGE

(By The Associated Press)
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 11.—Asserting that he had been warned that he was being "framed" for his law enforcement activities, the Rev. G. W. Gant, charged with murder of Anderson Green in a meeting between officers and alleged run runners, denied when he took the stand at his trial in federal court here late today that he fired the shots that killed Green.
His testimony was corroborated by Deputy Prohibition Agent W. O. Hill, who himself declared that he followed Green when the latter ran and fired three shots at him when he turned toward his pursuer with a pistol in hand. Reverend Gant, Hill testified, tried to stop Green's companion, who likewise fled.
The preacher, who preceded him on the stand, related details of the affair in Jefferson county last September and then declared that he had been warned that the indictment against him was framed for his activities against the whiskey traffic.
Witnesses who testified today for the prosecution declared that the minister emptied his pistol at Green.

New Line of Endeavor Launched by Hold-Ups

(By The Associated Press)
PARCHMAN, Miss., July 11.—Posses continued their search for the Delta swamps tonight for nine white men who were liberated from the prisoners' cage at a camp of the state penitentiary farm here today by three men who held up and disarmed the guard, broke the jail lock, and invited 43 prisoners to flee with them.
A trace of the prisoners had been found tonight, according to L. T. Fox, superintendent of the penitentiary, who declared the delivery apparently was intended to liberate friends of the three men who held up the guard.

PARENTS ADMIT SONS GUILTY OF KILLING

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, July 11.—Parents of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb admit their sons are guilty of kidnapping and murdering a little boy. Frank and attorneys for the defense announced today the parents would not seek acquittal for the murderers on that count. What they hope to accomplish through the employment of high priced attorneys and alienists is to save their sons from ignominious death on the gallows.
It is hoped the experts will convince the jury that the murderers are, or were, when they committed the atrocious crime, afflicted with paranoid dementia praecox, katatonic dementia praecox or dementia praecox simplex. Even a verdict of moral imbecility will do, so long as the murderers are permitted to live.
Through their attorneys, the parents issued another statement today, denying they were expending millions for the defense. They are thoughtfully convinced their sons are guilty of the crime and desire them punished, preferably by brief incarceration in some institution. To this end all the efforts of the attorneys and experts will be devoted to proving the murderers were insane when they committed the crime. It is believed the defense is hastening the reports of alienists so that the murderers can be taken before a commission to determine their sanity and thus dodge trial for murder.
The murder trial is set for August 4, but Clarence Darrow, chief of counsel for the defense, says he will delay for more of a continuance for a few weeks in which to get all his evidence in shape. Preliminary motions will be heard July 21, at which time it is thought the defense will ask for an immunity hearing and thus avert trial for murder.

NEWS OF NOMINATION DELIGHTS RALSTON

INDIANAPOLIS, July 11.—Senator Ralston, whose withdrawal from the contest for the democratic nomination for president started the break in the deadlock that resulted in the nomination of John W. Davis of West Virginia, heard the news over radio and was in high spirit over the selection.
"It would be hard to select from our party a man who could more ably present its cause than John W. Davis," he said in a formal statement. "He is in the prime of life—he is a high-grade gentleman and one of the really great lawyers of our country. I shall be glad to give him my sincere and constant support throughout the campaign."
The Hoosier Senator then sent the following telegram of congratulation to Mr. Davis:
"Mrs. Ralston joins me in the warmest congratulations to you and Mrs. Davis on your nomination for president. I shall do all I can for your election."

CIVIL WAR HAS RESULTED FROM BRAZIL REVOLT

Bombardment of Sao Paulo in Progress—Federal Forces Have Retired.

(By The Associated Press.)
BUENOS AIRES, July 12.—A virtual state of civil war appears to have resulted from the insurrection at Sao Paulo, which the "provisional government" established by the rebels opposed to the federal government at Rio Janeiro.

The strict censorship which is in effect prevents an accurate appraisal of the situation, but official communication allowed to pass the censor at Rio, together with advice received here from other sources, indicate that bombardment of the city of Sao Paulo is in progress and that the federal forces which a few days ago were within the city have retired.

An official communique given out at noon yesterday said the federal forces in transit here, says the federal forces on Thursday concentrated their fire upon "certain points" in the city "with satisfactory results." It adds: "The troops are advancing without halting, retaining the ground conquered."

During the last 24 hours the number of prisoners and deserters among the rebels has been increasing. The morale of our soldiers is excellent."

A wireless message from a Japanese vessel states that the government warehouse at the Port of Santos is safe.

MORNING STOCK LETTER

NEW YORK, July 12.—It's easy to be a bull these days. Quotations, always the most convincing argument, is the argument today. But if you will just look over the record and see what has happened lately, what has happened in the market in a month, and what has not happened in business, you will come to the conclusion that some caution is necessary here. Those who are managing syndicate operations, they will go right ahead as they always do and try to get a good out of the momentum back of the market and bid up values as high as they can and bring on the same trouble they always have before. As a rule they are responsible for about nine-tenths of the trouble we experience in the stock market—those nasty slumps. How much better it would be to have a sound and orderly market. But then these things cannot be controlled.

This morning's paper comments on the fact that money is being diverted from this market to London where a better return is assured. If this is so we have probably reached the low point in money.

PART COX PLAYED BEHIND SCENES AT CONVENTION TO FORM IMPORTANT CHAPTER

BY ROBERT T. SMALL.

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)

NEW YORK, July 12.—When the inside history of the record-breaking Democratic national convention of 1924 comes to be written, the part played behind the scenes in the final deliberations by former Governor James M. Cox will form perhaps the most interesting and important chapter.

Governor Cox arrived in New York at the psychological moment and in the midst of the twelfth floor of the Waldorf were held a series of conferences which concentrated the thought of the distraught leaders on the one man the candidate of 1920 considered as the outstanding figure in the Democracy today. Governor Cox arrived at the beginning of the third week of the convention when affairs seemed all but hopeless for the party of which he regarded himself as the titular head until a new standard of action was set.

The so-called leaders in the convention were pulling first one way and then the other. Every move made by one of them was suspected by the others. Every suggestion of a possible course of action was regarded with suspicion. It was feared there was some selfish motive back of it. Then, too, each leader had a favorite dark horse of his own and felt that if there was to be an ebbony equine chosen his man should unquestionably be the selection.

When Governor Cox arrived there were signs that both Mr. McAdoo and Governor Smith were becoming convinced at last that neither of them had a possible chance for the nomination. There also were signs that when the two leaders quit there would be another deadlock among the warring factions.

Having withdrawn from the race himself, having only the good of the party in mind, Governor Cox was sent to come to New York. He had received scores of telegrams while he was in Ohio urging him to lend his assistance to the drifting Democracy. After his arrival here he received literally thousands of additional messages. Applying Governor Cox found himself in a position to "talk turkey" to all the leaders. He knew them all, had been associated with them in campaign and conference. He had no axes to grind, no selfish interests to serve.

Governor Cox did not hesitate to talk with George Brennan, of Illinois; with Joe Guffey, of Pennsylvania;

Tom Taggart of Indiana; Norman Mack of New York; with the warring elements in his own home state delegation of Ohio. Governor Cox knew the convention was looking to some sign from this camp. The unbossed delegates had been crying for a leader, for a Moses to take them out of the wilderness of factional fighting and growing indecision.

But neither Taggart, nor Brennan, nor Guffey apparently had been able to deliver their delegates to anybody. Once the Illinois delegation was split seven different ways. This was on one of the late ballots, too. These leaders promised Mr. Cox, however, according to the story generally in circulation today, that if "the others" could agree on the proper man, they would see that at the proper time the full delegation strength was polled for him.

There was a wide canvass of the field of available candidates. Senator Glass, Senator Underwood and John W. Davis finally made up the field as the conferences proceeded. Governor Cox let it be known that he thought Mr. Davis the most available man of the trio, the strongest general agent and most likely to catch the imagination of the people. Senator Carter Glass had many friends in the conference. It was with great reluctance that these friends finally turned away from him, but there was general agreement in the end that Mr. Davis would be easiest to name.

This decision was reached about 5 a. m. last Tuesday. Then came the waiting for the inevitable release of delegates by Mr. McAdoo. Governor Cox had no effort to influence the Californian one way or the other. They simply took it for granted that eventually he must step aside. When he did so the end was in sight. There was no wild stampede for Davis on the first following night. There was no forcing, no coercion, but the Davis stream steadily swelled as the leaders fed in their strength.

In comment today upon the work of Governor Cox, the New York World editor says: "For the successful outcome of the convention a good part of the credit is due to Governor Cox. He came on the scene when the deadlock seemed most hopeless and leadership was at a discount. He knew what he wanted to do and he had the conviction to insist. And in the outcome his purpose was accomplished."

were inclined to heaviness, but chemicals and lathers took on a new lease of life on reports of improved trade conditions.

American Water Works common touched its sensational climb by continuing a record peak for all times at 151-1/2 compared with a 1924 low of 40, established last February. Considerable profit-taking developed however, after the stock touched par, and it closed last night at 105. West Virginia Power, a subsidiary also recorded a substantial gain. Other strong spots in that group included the United Railways Investment Issues, Consolidated Gas, Columbia Gas, Brooklyn Union Gas and Virginia Railway and Power.

Davis' Home Town to Entertain Hosts of Democracy Soon

(By The Associated Press.)

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., July 12.—Clarksbury today began preparation to entertain the hosts of Democracy when John W. Davis is officially notified of his nomination for the presidency. Although no definite plans for the notification ceremony have been made, Samuel R. Bentley, president of the Chamber of Commerce, declared in calling for the legislative reference bill organization for Monday, that it had been sufficiently indicated the event would be staged here for the town to begin making plans. The chamber expects to send a representative to Marion, Ohio, to obtain information on how that city handled the Harding notification in 1920.

OBSTACLES TO INCLUSION OF LAFOLLETTE'S NAME ON BALLOTS

By OWEN L. SCOTT

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)

CHICAGO, July 12.—Obstacles are rising to hamper the inclusion of the name of Robert Marion LaFollette on the November ballots as an independent candidate for president, but Congressman John M. Nelson, manager of the LaFollette campaign claims that preparations have been made to meet the situation in each State. Despite difficulties he says that every voter in the nation will be asked to put the candidate's name on his ballot, either as an independent or as a representative of the Farmer-Labor, or Socialist party.

Theodore Roosevelt, when he organized the Bull Moose party in 1912 was unable to get recognition in three States. Election laws in those commonwealths prevented inclusion of the new party designation on the ballots. By running as an independent, and where necessary LaFollette counts on getting his name before the people of every State.

Most of the present difficulties are arising in States which require petitions signed by voting preparations of the voters in order to obtain independent representation. Most commonwealths give until one month before the November election for independent candidates to file petitions and gain a place on the ballot. A comprehensive survey has just been made of the various State requirements by the legislative reference library bureau of Wisconsin for Senator LaFollette.

This reveals, as Congressman Nelson maintains, that Idaho alone presented serious difficulties. Independent candidates elsewhere were reported to be provided for through petition. In Idaho the Farmer-Labor party, already organized, is counted on to sponsor the LaFollette candidacy and get his name on the ballot. California, however, is now reported to be presenting no trouble, and it is explained that there, if necessary, the Socialist party may be called upon. The Socialists this year have no candidate of their own but have agreed to back the LaFollette movement. "We are interested only in getting the name of our candidate on the State ballots, and care little under what designation he runs, whether as an independent or representative of some party," Congressman Nelson said. "The machinery is being organized in each State to meet the local requirements. For the most part these are for petitions and can easily be provided for."
